 2023 PUBLICATION ***

Tinwald Churchyard Gravedigger's Book 1867-1903

This is an exciting new book that we have had permission from the writer's family to publish. It contains 1,080 funeral entries with an index.

 December 2022 PUBLICATIONS ***

Deaths from Dumfries & Galloway Newspapers 1773-1855

This is a new series of 11 books in alphabetical order of deaths listed in in Dumfries & Galloway Old Newspapers and contains over 42,000 entries.

The archive also contains many deaths that took place abroad wherever you will find Scottish Migrants, and we have no other documented record of them.

 1841 CENSUS ***

Our books for the 1841 census are now available in the Online Shop in addition to being ordered using the Order Form at the back of this Publications List.

It is often cheaper to obtain one of our books which provides details for the whole Parish or Burgh as opposed to doing lookups on ScotlandsPeople.

 ONLINE SHOP ***

Our Online Shop now has over 400 books available, many of which can be downloaded immediately as E-books in PDF format.

Research Tip1:

Please be aware that reference of documents or in fellow researchers files to "Dumfries" may refer to the Town or Burgh of Dumfries, the Parish of Dumfries or the County of Dumfries.

This similarly applies to Kirkcudbright and Wigtown.

Research Tip2:

A location which can cause confusion in your research is Maxwelltown. Maxwelltown was merged with Dumfries in 1929 but prior to that was the largest town in Kirkcudbrightshire and in the Parish of Troqueer.

If you are searching for a Birth, Marriage or Death record of a person who is thought to have resided in Maxwelltown, then you may need to search within the County of Kirkcudbright.

Research Tip3:

The main hospital for the area was in Dumfries. So if searching for a death of someone who resided in Kirkcudbrightshire or Wigtownshire it may be that following illness or accident they may have been taken to Dumfries Royal Infirmary in which case the death would have been registered in Dumfries, Dumfriesshire.

Some people in Wigtownshire requiring treatment may have been taken to Ayr Hospital and if they died there they would have been registered in Ayr, Ayrshire.

Similarly for certain types of treatment individuals may have been transferred to Glasgow or Edinburgh.
